Applicants

As graduands you will be solely responsible for meeting all the requirements of the application process as outlined in the application form, so be diligent and judicious in your attention to all the details of your application. Omissions, errors and inaccuracies will affect perceptions of prospective employers. Use examples in your application and interview that demonstrate professionalism, your scholarship and a sense of your calling to ministry.

This document outlines the stages of the application process and provides some helpful advice. The processes outlined in this document are governed by the South Pacific Division of the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Employment with the Church implies an understanding of its mission and a commitment to its gospel objectives. Students genuinely interested in denominational employment need to have the vision, commitment, enthusiasm and ability to articulate and promote the established purpose and mission of the Church. Applicants must be able to demonstrate an unequivocal commitment to the Adventist ethos, values and lifestyle.

Applicants are members of the Church, and are able to enthusiastically communicate and promote the purpose and mission of the Church. Students need to demonstrate and articulate how they are actively participating in a local Adventist congregation.

Each part of the application form needs to be completed in full.

2. Interview One

Representatives of the Church will conduct employment interviews at Avondale University or an alternate location as arranged. Representatives are prospective employers and key leaders of the Church, so punctuality and respectful consideration is appreciated. Please liaise with the Administrative Assistant in the Avondale Seminary, who will schedule interview times. A schedule of interview times will be notified by the Administrative Assistant. Please note your spouse/fiancé is invited and welcome to attend the second interview and dinner.

Subject to your authorisation, the following information will be made available to interview panels and prospective employers:

- Your completed application form and CV (if provided)
- Your Avondale University academic transcript

A copy of your application form will be kept by the HR office at the South Pacific Division for five years.

3. Interview Two and Dinner with Conference Presidents

The second opportunity to meet with Conference Presidents will be over a weekend in August followed by a dinner. The weekend and dinner is an opportunity for you and your spouse/fiancé to network with Conference Presidents and learn more about ministry in the local Conference and Church employment. The Avondale Seminary will organise the weekend and dinner and let you know the program. You will meet other leaders and it is recommended that you consider this event as an interview. Be prepared to share your commitment to God's ministry. This is a key opportunity to get to know what is happening in the South Pacific Division and opportunities that have been experienced by others as denominational employees.

Avondale Seminary Consultation

Application for denominational employment involves the recognition that interviewers may choose to discuss your application with Avondale Seminary personnel.

Personnel may be asked to provide information or assessment beyond a professional academic assessment of your course work. Opinions may be sought concerning your initiative and motivation, dependability, organisational ability, leadership abilities, and competence in your chosen profession. Special abilities and strengths related to potential roles in the workplace may also be discussed.

4. Calls

From September 2022, Conferences will be finalising their staffing for the following year and offers of employment will be sent through the Division in the form of Calls. Some Calls are negotiated later in the year but applicants can discuss details further with Avondale Seminary.
